THE MODERN WAY

There is no guess work about the effectiveness of the Farm Sale advertising plan offered by The Evening and Morning Gazette. It's worth has been proved by several years of satisfactory results. Farmers in every part of Greene County who have used this advertising plan are united in stating that it completely covers every advertising need and that it not only brings large crowds to the sales but that it attracts the class who attend the sales as buyers.

Gone forever are the days when farm sales were advertised by means of glaring posters on trees, telephone posts and buildings. The old fashioned sale bill passed off the scene with old Dobbin. The modern farmer whizzing along the road in his high powered automobile scarcely sees the dash of color along the roadside where an expensive poster may have been placed. Instead Mr. Farmer hurries home and takes up his daily paper to find out where the next farm sale will be held and what will be offered.

MEETS EVERY NEED

Because The Gazette has met the new conditions in the modern way they are able to give to the farmers of Greene County a sale advertising plan that actually meets their needs. The name of the farmer and the date of the sale is carried in a boxed item on the cover page of the paper in advance of the regular advertising thus reserving the date and avoiding conflicting dates. Three insertions of the regular sale bill in the advertising columns of the paper have been found to be adequate to give ample publicity to the sale. Along with the advertising one hundred hand bills, the same size as the advertising in the paper, are given ABSOLUTELY FREE. This combination has proved ideal for the complete advertising of farm sales.

The rates offered on farm sale advertising have been figured at the lowest possible margin of profit and The Gazette's combination offer represents the utmost in return for the money expended.
